Adobe Acrobat Connect SDK provides a set of integration APIs that can be used by your application to collect documents and presentations stored in Acrobat Connect and to render them on an Acrobat Connect document viewer. It supports both server-based and peer-to-peer client-server deployment. Adobe Acrobat Connect SDK supports secure document uploads (standard Kerberos authentication), file upload, document conversion, document preview, document review and annotations, document rendering, and offline document backup. Based on classes and interfaces from Adobe's.NET Framework. Adobe Acrobat Connect SDK can be used to build any solution that uses Acrobat Connect in one of four ways: A.

Embed PDF files as resources in a.NET Windows application, MFC Windows application, WinForms Windows application, or WPF Windows application. In all cases, the PDF documents are stored in the application's resource (.resx) file. B. Display PDF documents in a WPF Windows application, or an OpenSource WPF application. C. Embed Adobe PDF files as resources in a.NET web forms (ASP) application or a MFC web application (ASP). In either case, the PDF files are stored in the application's resource file. D. Embed Adobe PDF files as resources in a.NET Windows application, or an OpenSource Windows application. In all cases, the PDF documents are stored in the application's resource (.resx) file.
