Video Editing with Premiere Pro Premiere Pro enables you to edit all the different types of videos and projects you may have with just one program. If you're a professional working in the video editing field, you may find it very useful to be able to edit one project with multiple video and audio elements. In addition, it has been proven to be a more efficient editing system than working with multiple video programs because many functions are built in such as transitions, titles, audio tracks, and animatic projects. The program also allows you to share your project online and easily export your final version into different video formats. It is very similar to Windows Movie Maker, which is included in Windows 7 and enables you to edit and create your own videos and export them for online sharing.

The White House is now facing a rebellion over a decision to end US support for a key anti-terrorism force in Iraq. The White House is facing a rebellion over a decision to end US support for a key anti-terrorism force in Iraq. President Barack Obama stunned his top military commanders on Wednesday by announcing the withdrawal of about 300 US troops from Iraq by the end of September. 'We are not leaving a residual force there,' Obama declared from the White House. 'We are not establishing a permanent US military base in Iraq. We will continue to work with our Iraqi partners to train, advise and support Iraqi forces as they take the fight to terrorists who threaten the Iraqi people and US interests in the region.' Around 6,000 US troops are currently based in the country as part of the US's 2010 troop surge in Iraq. Wednesday's announcement by Obama was a clear breach of the 2008 presidential campaign promise that he would pull out all US troops from Iraq by the end of 2011. However, as US officials and Democratic lawmakers reacted to the president's decision, more than 70 top US and Iraqi generals warned they would 'mobilise' in the coming weeks and months to fight the Islamic State of Iraq and the Levant terror group, more commonly known as ISIL. 'The movement of the US [forces] is an implicit threat to our security,' said a handwritten note posted on a wall inside the Baqubah military hospital where a group of Iraqi doctors worked in a basement facility trying to treat wounded ISIL fighters. On Wednesday, The Associated Press obtained an official document issued by the Pentagon informing US troops that they will be leaving Iraq by the end of September, three years after the US invasion under George Bush. 'The Department of Defence is today providing notice that it will complete the withdrawal of the US forces from Iraq by September 30, the end of 2011,' the 1 April document reads. US military commanders have warned that if left alone, ISIL could pose the greatest threat to American security since al-Qaeda leader Osama bin Laden and his deputy Ayman al-Zawahiri were killed in 2011. President Barack Obama had vowed to eliminate all US troops in Iraq by the end of 2011, pictured in January. On Wednesday, White House Chief of Staff Denis McDonough told CBS News it was not clear whether Obama's decision was the result of hard political pressure or a long-planned decision to end the nearly nine
