Download Autodesk Advance Steel 2017 x64 + Update 1 + Crack.Polyethylene films of various thicknesses are used as packaging films for cartons, and as wrapping and shrink-wrapping materials for boxes, cartons, and the like. Polyethylene films or sheets (hereinafter referred to generally as "sheets") are useful as packaging materials because they have a high degree of stiffness and a high level of retention of rigidity when subject to stresses. These qualities are highly desirable in packaging and wrapping of fragile articles which require protection against crushing and crushing injury, even after the container or carton has been made into a sealed package. It is common practice to apply a lacquer or coating of latex or thermoplastic polymers, such as vinyls, polyvinylidene chloride and polyvinyl chloride, to the polyethylene film as a protective and decorative coating. The polyethylene sheet is first heated to an elevated temperature, usually in the range of 100.degree. to 150.degree. C., and the lacquer or thermoplastic polymer coating is then applied thereon. After the lacquer or coating has been applied, the sheet is cooled to give it its final thickness and to make it resistant to abrasion and chemical attack. In this way, a polyethylene sheet can be provided which has a high degree of protection against scratching and abrasion, as well as, having a decorative appearance. However, because of the high cost of thermoplastic polymers, it is not desirable to apply the lac
