Surgery and Chapter 4 Post-operative Care. 6.6 Surgical Treatment of the Extent of the Disease The surgical treatment of soft tissue sarcomas of the limbs is based on the anatomical situation. Sarcomas of limbs may be closed within the joint or can be surrounded by joint. In both cases, removal or limb amputation is the first choice. In the situation when the tumor does not surround the joint, free resection in the limb can be performed. Extensive sarcomas of the extremities may be treated by surgery and postoperative radiation or radiochemotherapy. The first choice is limb amputation followed by adjuvant treatment.
