Minister Tsai Ing-wen yesterday apologized for using a phrase deemed unacceptable by China, which she had used in a bid to try to encourage China to improve its human rights record. Tsai was quoted by the Japan News service as saying during a visit to Shanghai that she hoped the phrase would prove helpful in promoting exchanges between the two countries. "I realize that this kind of advocacy may be detrimental to the overall bilateral relationship," Tsai was quoted as saying, referring to her use of the phrase "Taiwan is not a threat to China." Tsai's apology came after China's Foreign Ministry accused her of using "double standards" with regard to Taiwan. Taiwan maintains diplomatic ties with Beijing but is formally under the protection of the United States. The Global Times tabloid, an influential state-run newspaper, said on Aug. 24 that "All these denunciations come from people who are in Tsai's camp, as well as Taiwanese, or were penned by Taiwanese." Tsai used the phrase in an appearance in Beijing on Aug. 23 in response to comments made by Chinese government spokesman Qin Gang. When asked why Taiwan's relations with China are currently at a low point, Qin replied that "There are too many reasons to list." He also indicated that Beijing was not under any obligation to improve relations. Tsai said: "I hope that what we need right now is to break the ice and start talking with one another, no matter how strained the relations might be." Tsai's intervention seemed to be aimed at further improving cross-strait ties at a time when Beijing has been taking a hardline approach toward Taiwan as part of a wider plan to boost its influence in the region. In an article in the Global Times, the newspaper accused the United States of abandoning its efforts to help Taiwan, after it ended its deployment of the most advanced F-16 fighter to Taiwan this year. The paper also accused Beijing of "r

How To Crack A Day Of Maintenance:

- First of all you should fix the Game's Crack Hash File (Dwsfile.exe). In this file you should see the Number: 352-45 (or a similar number). If it is not there, then the hash file is not crack, then the crack is also not downloaded! Check if you have the crack in "cracks are here".
- Download and Install the Twirlin App
- How to install Twirlin
- Not need to worry about Twirlin as it gets automatic installation as soon as it is downloaded!
- Don't Need your Oculus Rift Ready! I own one I just don't use it for a very good reason! Use it to have a better experience.
- Once the Twirlin is running click "Rift"
- Enter the game (Select your choice in "language" or download some other game and enter it on Oculus).
- Upon entering the door a window should pop up to "Install Updates" click it to install the crack hash file.
- Once installed, click "Okay"
- Hope your not playing with Oculus it's very important with it!!! If it's not installed enter Oculus and it will install fine!
- Open "Twirlin", when Twirlin is opened click "Play" you should be placed in the game (if not, go back a step and retry)
- Now let's try Hack for a bit!
