Strange but true, I wanted to pass on some feedback. When I first came across this product, at the start, I thought I was in trouble because it was destined to fail. Why you ask? First, I've played a few e-sports games, they have all crashed and burned. Second, the game play seems awful. First, you have the little arrow that points you in the direction to go (It's not a map). It's impractical as far as game play. The second problem is the game music. It's all wrong for an RPG. The way the music is laid out is horrible. There's no cohesiveness. It's background music when you're doing something cool like killing a giant warlord or something. As far as battle goes, there is a learning curve. I'm no one to talk to about fighting as I got my ass kicked to death the first time I played. A real beginner would have a good time since the game gives you hints and tips on how to play the game. If you're an e-sports player, you'd love the game. The game is a pro level experience for you to marvel at. I could go on about it, but I feel I need to stop. I think this game is destined for failure. -Tony "I passed on this game, when it came out. I didn't want to invest time and money into a game that might not work. I was wrong. I am pretty sure that this game will do quite well. Most of the reviews I've seen are very mixed. I am sure that most won't make any money, but the ones who do will make a lot more. I will pass on. It's a risk. I won't back the game. If it fails, I might as well throw the money I spent into a lottery game. Now I have a game that I can not recommend as I won't profit from it. I am still going to pass on. It's not the best game. It's the most hyped game right now. It sounds great, but I don't have enough time to play it. I am not going to give time to playing this game. I don't like the guys who promise everything, and deliver nothing. Another gem coming from a dying industry. I am sure it will be a success. I hope to God that this game doesn't fail, because I'd have to give up the money and bff6bb2d33

My friend recently did send me money to my paypal account, but I just didn't have any money at the time. I updated it quickly with the money he sent me. The money went through, but now I keep getting the message "Transaction failed". What can cause this? A: Did you confirm that your friend's account is linked to that PayPal account? If not, you would have had a failure because it doesn't "own" the PayPal account. This means that the transaction could have either happened
