In order to evaluate diastolic function in patients with moderate aortic stenosis (AS), 69 patients with moderate AS (aortic pressure gradient more than or equal to 40 mmHg) and 34 normal subjects were examined. Early diastolic flow velocity (E), atrial systolic peak velocity (A) and the atrial to ventricular systolic peak velocity ratio (A/V) were assessed by Mitral inflow Doppler echocardiography. When the E/A ratio was less than 1.5, the patient was considered to have restrictive diastolic dysfunction. The mean age of the patients was 60 +/- 14 years, 19 were men and 50 were women. The mean aortic pressure gradient of the patients was 50 +/- 15 mmHg. E and A were identified in 71% and 69% of the patients, respectively. A/V ratio was less than 1 in 16 patients and less than or equal to 1.5 in 51 patients. By comparison, these values in normal subjects were 93%, 95% and 91% respectively. The number of patients with restrictive diastolic function was 5 (7%) of the patients with AS and 10 (29%) of the patients without AS. Analysis of variance showed a significant difference in A/V ratio between the two groups (p less than 0.01). There was no significant difference in E and A between the two groups (p less than 0.05).
