The Update System: i use a key system which consists of Key Codes, Connection Codes, and Address Codes and some others which controls my data packets SET GAMEKEY CODE: DEFINES A KEY (0 = use game default) VALIDATE GAMEKEY CONNECTION: The above definition could be updated, and the result sent out to other UNS (A connection is an instance of the same entype) SET GAMEKEY ADDRESS: Defines a number in the data segment. This override any previous settings and still use game default VALUE GAMEKEY CODE: will return the definition of the GAMEKEY in the key dialog Now I want to make a key for the weapon in the string, but as C# insists on giving me things in integer...Since I don't know how to parse the string to a variable, because then, I could parse to a weapon, I ended up doing something like this:

pModifier.Gamekey_Perkmodifier.TheString; Here the code: The String is selecte like WeaponName[1][1][5]..Now the weapon name is defined like this:Weapon Name = key

I actually like the fact that they're going with a "crash episode" for the final 2 episodes of the series. First Ace is in a coma for 3 episodes, then Ace loses consciousness, then we're all standing around talking about Ace until he finally dies. Now we're merely waiting for his death scene to come around and eventually it does. I d41b202975

A- Introduction by: "Jobs" (Don't worry too much about this intro it's all commented out and commented out code. The only un- needed stuff is the line you have to be worried about) Greenlight Variables ===== GREENLIGHT_PATH_DEFAULT Path of the Default Save Folder GREENLIGHT_PATH_SDK_INIT Path of the API initialization path GREENLIGHT_AUTORUN_DEFAULT Startup to Exit auto run flag GREENLIGHT_AUTORUN_SDK_INIT Startup to Exit auto run flag C - Notes ===== 1) If you only care about the auto run feature just set GREENLIGHT_AUTORUN_DEFAULT to 1. 2) Make sure to set the appropriate path in the SDK 3) Don't forget to copy over the default level to sdksave. - Basically the same as the auto run function, but without - having a log file, as well as easier to remove. 4) If you are supporting mac and linux, you will need to change the variable in this function because the path on those systems isn't your sdk.sdksave You can do so easily, just change the line that has the sdk.sdksave from: sdk.sdksave = os.path.join(settings.GREENLIGHT_SDK_INIT, "sdksave.json") to: sdk.sdksave = os.path.join(os.path.join(settings.GREENLIGHT_PATH_DEFAULT, "sdksave.json"), "sdksave.json") 5) I'm sorry I forgot this when I first started coding, so I changed the way I log my errors. At the moment my logging method uses: print(s, "ERROR:", end=") Which prints out the string and the ERROR part is in red Not good because when people come back and run their scripts it is pretty easy to see an error. So instead I log everything with the python logging module and that was the only bad part about it. Gameplay Final Dusk Greenlight Support by: "Jobs"

I think I have more potion of resurrection if needed. Don't think I need to resurrect Petrol, I'm guessing he was just a waste. Shrine 1-5 The way to the shrine is not very hard after all, don't be ambushed by any monsters trying to kill you. 5-10-15 minutes later, I was to the final shrine. I know it's a rouge difficulty. And you can attack and keep your bleeds up at all time. I did the quests, then went to the boss. He was of 1/10 HP again, hopefully luckily. Used Spell of Creation, all the spells first, then Sanctuary of Light then Courage and then a force 10 attack to kill him. Might be a good tip to avoid injuries, ensure your life points are stable, and attack him heavily before you use all your skills. With about 2.5 minutes left for the repointing, I was going to the next boss. Skulper wasnt that hard, in fact I didnt even need my skills. But I did need the 1h potion. I did the regen while attacking 3 snakes on the ground and 1 on the head. Was like a 3h+ while getting a lot of regen back. Tried the Beacon of Hope (with LMC being too slow),
