What's new in MocapForAll:

is a stealth-action game and the second instalment in the Metal Gear Rising series by Konami. It was released on September 26, 2013 for Microsoft Windows, Xbox 360, and PlayStation 3. The game was developed by PlatinumGames and published by Konami. It is the second game in the series to carry the Rising sub-series, following Metal Gear Rising: Revengeance in 2011. The story is preceded by a playable prologue, titled Metal Gear Rising: Revengeance. The game is a departure from Metal Gear Solid V, in that it is a third-person stealth-action game and also features voice acting. The main protagonist of this installment, Kazuhira Miller, is already established as the main protagonist of Metal Gear Solid V, while the protagonist of Rising, Raiden, is left in the past. The game's story, setting, and gameplay features were influenced by the graphic novel series The Raiden Project, published by Shogakukan. A manga series illustrated by Ichiro Sakaki, based on the game, has also been produced. Design aspects were influenced by the XCOM series, and Metal Gear Solid V. Metal Gear Rising: Revengeance is set almost entirely on one location, the Large Neutron Collider Facility (LNX), which is a well-fortified military facility, and the player is tasked with stopping a nuclear reactor from exploding. Owing to the complexity, the release of the game took longer than intended. A PlatinumGames statement later explained the game was originally set for an April release date but was subsequently pushed into a September release due to development issues. In May, Konami stated the development staff were divided on how to proceed with the story, and the early draft was not close to the final product. There were also discussions on how the game would place Raiden in. During this time, Hiroshi X directed the game. Gameplay Unlike previous installments of the Metal Gear series which follow the "Big Boss approach", Metal Gear Rising: The End of Time is a third-person stealth-action game. The game is set mostly in one location, the Large Neutron Collider Facility, or LNX. Players assume the role of Kazuhira Miller, who is a soldier from the Militaires Sans Frontières (MSF), the world's mercenary force. Miller is a former member of the army unit SEI, and he is tasked with stopping a terrorist attack by "Metal Gear" terrorists. LNX

Bioleaching using microorganisms has been investigated as a treatment of the waste from copper mining. The aim of this work is to improve the bioleaching process by using bacteria inoculums, varying the inoculums volume and the medium pH. The results showed that the nitrate mineral-forming bacteria and the leaching of copper were improved in the media of pH 6.5 and inoculums volume of 100 ml. The results of the chemical composition of the pyrite and copper species were in accordance with literature data. X-ray diffraction (XRD) and scanning electron microscopy (SEM) confirmed the copper-bearing pyrite was reduced by the bacteria. X-ray photoelectron spectroscopy (XPS) was used to characterize the copper species. After microleaching the residue content, heavy metal contents, and microorganism growth were analyzed. The results indicated that one ml of the inoculums resulted in a better copper extraction efficiency for the chemical process. The most promising results were achieved at pH 6.5 and with a volume of 100
