Sulfated glycosaminoglycan and the kallikrein-kinin system: role in aging and hypertension. Plasma glycosaminoglycan (GAG) sulfation is decreased in aging humans and this decrease may correlate to a decrease in kininogen and kinin levels. Changes in GAG sulfation in hypertension may be one mechanism contributing to the vascular alterations that occur in this condition. The decrease in GAG sulfation that occurs with aging may be due to a decrease in serum sulfotransferase activity. A decrease in the serine proteinase inhibitor, alpha-2-macroglobulin, has been documented in aging. This decrease may be one mechanism by which age-related kallikrein inhibition occurs. In normal human plasma, kininogenase activity due to increased free kinin levels in plasma is blocked by kinin-specific serine proteinase inhibitors like alpha-2-macroglobulin. The decrease in alpha-2-macroglobulin that occurs with aging may be a mechanism for the observed increases in kinin and vasoactive peptide levels that occur with aging.

Q: How to find the open set containing a point x ? Let $X = \{x = (x_1, x_2) \mid x_1^2 + x_2^2 < R^2\}$. Let $\epsilon > 0$. Let x_0 be a point in X such that $|x - x_0| < \epsilon$. Let $B(x_0, \epsilon)$ be a neighborhood of x_0 , can we find an open set G of X such that $B(x_0, \epsilon) \subset G$? A: Since $x \in X$, there is an $R > 0$ such that $|x| < R$.

Most bee colonies are apis mellifera (European Honeybee). But there is also vespis ceratos (African Honeybee), which is a good pollinator but they don't make honey. And there is also all the wasp species that hunt small insects as prey (legitimate pollinators in some cases).
