□/One more thing: ©1994 Sega Enterprises Ltd. She was arrested and arraigned in jail this week — then charged with a felony count of rape after DNA testing revealed she'd been inseminated. The 25-year-old victim's weeping mother pleaded for probation and said the family is afraid to tell the victim's father, a gardener at Madison Park, where she lives, because of the potential fallout. "If he knows, we're finished. Everybody is going to think we're insane," said the distraught woman, crying as she insisted that the victim was "just a kid." Police arrested the alleged rapist, a 25-year-old Westchester man, on charges of rape and criminal sexual act Sunday night. He was arrested on a warrant on the same day. He was held in lieu of $100,000 bail. The Westchester County woman, who was not named, was led off in handcuffs early Monday at her lawyer's law office in White Plains as she waited to be arraigned. The rape kit was collected on Sunday by police and released to the Westchester County Crime Lab. The case is under investigation. Neighbors of the woman said they saw the emergency-service technician who worked at the residence with the victim on Saturday morning. She was crying and seemed "upset," the neighbors said. A police spokesman referred all questions to the DA's office, but prosecutors didn't return a call for comment. The alleged victim was interviewed by the police. She was treated at the scene for minor injuries.

I've been designing a touchbar controller, and it's a clean and minimalistic interface, but I want to add a quick launch screen which would ideally include a back, menu and home button. I was thinking this would be as simple as using a view that has only a background image with the text set to 'caption' so that it can take up a designated area. However, it occurred to me that maybe the best way to have a primary menu is to simply create a button which would be the "default" that is used as a 'back' button, the menu button, and the home button. Can this be done? Does Apple allow for this, and how would I make it such that it would be as well-interactive as a normal button? A: I think it should be fine. Yes, it's not standard to have a 3D button in a host app (a button is always 3
