To select the image file to open, click on the downward pointing arrow (►) image icon in the upper left corner of the Photoshop Elements document window. When you mouse over the document, a drop-down menu will appear with a selection of image files stored on your computer. Navigate to the image you would like to edit with Photoshop Elements and click on it. This is where your editing adventure will begin. Basic Editing Tools for Getting Started You have a number of basic tools at your disposal to adjust your image within Photoshop Elements. You can zoom, trim the edges, enhance the image, and then crop the image. Zoom In Photoshop Elements, the default zoom level is 1,800%, and is called "wide view". A zoom tool bar appears at the bottom left of the Photoshop Elements document window. This tool bar contains zoom tools, with the ability to zoom in or out of the image by 1/10th, 2/10th, 4/10th, or even 5/10th. You can zoom in by clicking on the plus (+) sign while hovering over the image. Zoom out by clicking on the minus (–) sign. Zoom in, zoom out, and navigate your way to any other zoom level by using the Zoom In tool in the top right corner. Resizing Resizing can make it easier to view your images or add text or other elements to the image. Photoshop Elements will resize the image to fit your screen, but you can also manually size the image. To resize the image, click on the resize tool bar icon, located at the bottom of the Photoshop Elements document window. The mouse cursor will change into a hand-grip indicating that you can resize the image with your mouse. Click on the image to resize it and drag on the edges of the image to resize it. Click on the image while holding down the Ctrl key on your keyboard to keep the aspect ratio, or 1:1, for your images while you resize it. If you hold down the Ctrl key while you resize, your image will maintain its proportions. To see the image's proportions, hold down the Ctrl key while viewing the image. Your image will be in the center of your screen with both the top and bottom edges of the image touching the top and bottom edges of the screen. This will allow the viewer to zoom into the image, or out from it, and see the image in its original proportions.

Home What we do At the heart of OptiSpin is our commitment to clean air. We do this by finding the sources of pollutants and removing them so the air is clean. By removing the pollutants in our own Plant, we reduce or eliminate the need to pay others to do it. This also means that we are able to pay our employees more and reduce the cost to you. We also reduce the need to use chemicals like mineral spirits, solvents, hydrochloric acid, and solvents or mechanical cleaners, to clean things, which increases the air quality. We like to think of ourselves as a company that does things differently and an organization that is more about the greater good than making a profit at all costs. This is why we have designed a mission statement that highlights our objectives: To provide the highest quality ethylene, propylene, and butadiene to the chemical manufacturing industry while bringing to market the cleanest, safest, most efficient, most cost effective processes and services available. To build strong relationships with our customers so that we are more than a supplier of basic chemicals and services, but also a partner committed to building long-term relationships. Like all marketing, data marketing is about understanding the ways that we interact with the world – and particularly how those interactions shape a brand. Data marketing takes that insight and translates it into actionable ideas. However, no matter how much data you have, it's unlikely you'll be able to find some category that has data that's perfect for your brand. In fact, the data might not even be suitable – it's too old or too new. For instance, your ad traffic that you're trying to optimise might be geared towards people who live in the US. And your email conversion rates might have been a bit low before 2014 so it might be worth focusing on data from that year. (Unless, of course, your customer data is driven by a similar email conversion rate.) Or your website's visitors might be from
